THE SIMPLE ROSE GARDEN

Here are shown four simple planting plans for laying out a rose garden with this special collection of a dozen two-year-old heavily rooted bushes.

If you are planning more than one bed or wish to combine any of these plans for extended display, just order a corresponding number of these collections.

PLAN No. 1

Size 4½ x 8 feet. Requires one collection, allowing three rose bushes to each of the four sections.

PLAN No. 2

Size 6 x 12 feet. A single collection provides eight rose bushes (Nos. 1 to 8) for the outer border and four varieties (Nos. 9 to 12) for the inner one.

PLAN No. 3

Size 5 x 15 feet. This collection of twelve varieties can be effectively arranged in this curved border, spaced about 2 feet apart in a double row.

PLAN No. 4

Size 3 x 20 feet. The conventional running border. The rose collection should be set out in a staggered row in the order named in list.
THE FORMAL ROSE GARDEN

Two plans of widely different form showing how the clipped hedge frames the garden with formal effect and makes an ideal background for the colorful blooms.

PLAN No. 5
Size 28 feet in diameter. Scale, 1 inch = 10 feet. Clipped Hedge Border. Requires two of these rose collections for the outside circular beds, allowing six plants to each of the four sections. The inner beds, set out to low-growing perennials, provide a lively complement to the more dignified rose array. A sun dial or gazing globe forms the central figure.

PLAN No. 6
Size 23 x 46 feet. Scale, 1 inch = 10 feet. Clipped Hedge Border. Requires four of these rose collections, allowing a dozen plants set out two feet apart in a double staggered row in each of the four corner sections. The inner beds may be used for low-growing perennials, or annuals. A garden seat and bird bath are needed to complete this plan.
